INTRODUCTION

The principal settlements of Pennsylvania Germans were named for the streams which drained them, and often as not these retained native American nomenclature that predated white settlement. No one has made a study of the phenomenon of these "settlements," but they were not towns, they were not laid out in a systematic way. They had no common government, there was no map that gave them borders--and yet a term like "the Conewago settlement" had clear meaning to eighteenth century citizens of the area. Sometimes it was used with a modifier, "Little," because the stream now called the South Branch of the Conewago Creek was then known as the Little Conewago, in contrast to the Great Conewago. The Little Conewago proceeds in a northerly course until it joins the Great Conewago, which flows eastwardly across what is now Adams and York County, Pennsylvania, into the Susquehanna, north and east of what is now York County's seat, the city of York.

European settlement in the area began in the 1720s, accelerated in the 1730s and 1740s and had grown to such a point that almost stacatto-style a series of towns developed in the area in the mid-1760s: Hanover (Hanovertown or McAllistertown), 1763: Abbottstown (Berwick, Berwicktown), 1763; McSherrystown (Heidelbergtown), 1765; Littlestown (Petersburg, Kleinschtettel), 1765; and not quite in the Little Conewago settlement, East Berlin (originally Berlin), 1764. The population that made the area grow included some descendants of British immigrants, including some Roman Catholic settlers from Maryland, but was extensively Swiss and German in origin and, as one would expect, heavily Lutheran and Reformed in composition, though some German Catholics, Mennonite and Brethren were among them. The strong German overlay persists in the area. Until after World War I it was essential for merchants in Hanover doing business with the country people to have clerks fluent in Pennsylvania Dutch; and the language could be heard on the streets of Hanover on Saturday nights when the farmers came to town and the stores were open well after World War II. Indeed there have been older women in the area who died in the last three decades who could not speak English at all and many others who preferred not to.

The Swiss-German population brought their Protestant faith with them. German law after the Thirty Years' War permitted the Roman Catholic church and two forms of Protestant Christianity legal existence in German lands. These were the Reformed church, which held the Heidelberg Catechism, and the Lutheran, which used Martin Luther's. There were places in Germany by the mid-eighteenth century in which Lutheran and Reformed congregations existed side by side in one village, a circumstance occasioned by the movement of peoples after the long war. Hundreds of persons filled a near vacuum in the Palatinate by migrating from France, Switzerland, Tyrol, Austria, Bavaria, Hesse and other places. Some of these people strove to retain the faith of their birth and childhood, even though the governing principle was that the ruler of a given territory determined the religion of his lands.

Thus, while in a general way one confession predominated in an area, there were many instances in which two served the population. In fact, in some communities of heavy emigration, the Simultaneum existed, an arrangement whereby a church building was shared by Catholics and Protestants, either by physical division of it or by alternative use of it.

The Protestant population of the Conewago settlement probably did without public worship until May 22, 1735, when John Casper Stoever (1707-1779) appeared and married several couples and performed eight baptisms. His visits were repeated and occurred on a regular basis in the 1740s. Stoever was a Lutheran clergyman, albeit not in the classic European pattern of education or ordination. The evidence suggests that whatever inadequacies he had, he also was deeply concerned for the spiritual and sacramental welfare of Lutheran people all the way from Pennsylvania, across Maryland, into Virginia. From his efforts the Lutheran congregations in Lancaster, York, Hanover, and Frederick, Maryland, arose, as well as numerous others in village or rural settings.

By 1743, if not before, a congregation was organized in the Conewago settlement. Stoever had found and, with his own teacher Valentin Krafft, now a pastor in Pennsylvania, ordained David Candler in that year to be pastor for the Codorus (York, Pa), Conewago and Monacacy (Frederick, Md) Lutherans. Because a resident clergyman could certify receipt of Holy Communion for acquiring naturalization, not to mention other ecclesiastical duties, settlers were glad for him. Their pleasure was short-lived; he died little more than a year after he arrived. But that year had seen the erection of a building which served as school, church, and parsonage and the congregation secured as a permanent feature of the community.

In 1750 the Conewago Lutherans moved to a location east of their first choice, likely because they had no clear title to it. In 1780 they purchased a lot in Hanover, very likely on which a schoolhouse stood. Early in the 1800s they acquired two adjoining lots and built a large church on it, the third in the congregation's history. Two subsequent buildings have been erected there and the congregation, now named Saint Matthew, is one of the largest in the Evangelical Lutheran Church in America.

German services of worship existed at St. Matthew into the second decade of the twentieth century, although English had been used for nearly a century before. Depending on how one reckons it, most Lutheranism in western York County, Adams County and northern Maryland has developed from this congregation with at least half a dozen congregations directly spawned from it. And because Lutheran clergy were not likely to decline requests for pastoral service, persons of Lutheran, Reformed, many other or no religious affiliation were baptised and married and buried through this church.

The records, begun by Pastor Candler in 1743, but including a series of baptisms performed by Jost Mohr, a layman, from 1741 until Candler came, constitute one of the most important sources for studying life in the Conewago settlement and the genealogy of its members. The translation below which carefully corrects an earlier manuscript one is published to expedite such research.

One must note about these records that 1) there were long periods of vacancy between 1744 and 1753 when John George Baugher (1725-1791) came as pastor (and served until 1763 and again from 1767 until 1785) -- with the result that some years are inadequately reported; 2) some of the "pastors" ministering during these vacancies were "independents," that is self-appointed and self-trained persons who were often barely literate and rarely kept records; 3) even when Baugher became pastor his record-keeping after his return in 1767 was poor and often entrusted to schoolmasters. It is only with the arrival of Frederick Valentine Melsheimer (1749-1814) in 1789 that the records of the congregation improve in quality (although that statement does not include his penmanship), but even he entered marriages and burials only after 1807. Rich as these records are, in other words, there is obviously much missing from them. These omissions leave frustration for family historians in their wake.

What other records can be used for studying families in the Conewago settlement?

1. John Casper Stoever kept a journal in which he recorded baptisms of persons in areas in which no congregational register existed. It has been published and reprinted, but a new translation and arrangement of his activities on a day-by-day basis is promised since the earlier is marked by errors and omits the first pages of the original. All the baptisms and marriages Stoever performed at Conewago are recorded there, but since persons moved into the Conewago settlement from elsewhere in Pennsylvania over many years, his records pose a source for family data from a second point of view.

2. The Reformed congregation in the Conewago settlement dates from briefly after the Lutheran (although members of the two confessions begun to appear simultaneously in the area), and the records of Christ Reformed Church (United Church of Christ) near Littlestown began in 1747 are as useful to Lutherans as the Lutheran record is to Reformed families. They have not been published, but several manuscript translations exist. Unfortunately the records are also spotty due to long periods of pastoral vacancy. In the 1760s a Reformed congregation organized and built a church in Hanover and the records of Emmanuel Church there, translated again in manuscript, are useful.

3. Jacob Lischy (1719-1780), a Reformed clergyman, kept a register of his pastoral acts which includes many references to the population of the community. This record too has been translated in manuscript.

4. Records of daughter congregations should also be consulted. These include St. David's (Sherman's) Church, records from 1754; St. John's Church near Littlestown, from 1767; St. Mary's at Silver Run, Maryland, established by 1763; records from 1784; Zion Church, Manchester, Maryland, records from 1760. They would also include records of Saint John's church in Abbottstown from the mid

1760s, but these were apparently burned long ago in a fire at the church. The records of the parallel Reformed congregations should not be ignored. For a comprehensive understanding of the history of the two denominations, one should consult the two-volume work of Charles H. Glatfelter, Pastors and People: German Lutheran and Reformed Churches in the Pennsylvania Field, 1717-1793 (Breinigsville, Pennsylvania, 1980, 1982)

Obviously secular records and other privately developed records, such as baptismal certificates and family Bibles, should be examined if comprehensive family histories are to be prepared.

The background history of the congregation whose records are translated here is provided in Frederick S. Weiser, "The Lutheran Church on the Conewago at Hanovertown," A History of Saint Matthew Evangelical Lutheran Church, Hanover, Pennsylvania, 1735-1810 (Hanover, 1993), copies of which are available from St. Matthew Lutheran Church, 30 West Chestnut Street, Hanover, PA 17331.

The originals of all but the most recent registers of pastoral acts are deposited at the Lutheran archival center at Wentz Library, Lutheran Theological Seminary, Gettysburg, Pa. The Congregation has two sets of bound xerox copies of the original records in the archives.

I have taken the liberty of placing all baptisms, marriages, burials and communicants' and confirmands' lists in proper sequence, no matter where they appear in the original register, but have given an accounting of all 390 leaves in the register.

In the production of this work, I am indebted to the clergy of Saint Matthew's church, to its archives and anniversary committee, especially to Jean Martin who chairs the archives committee. I wish to acknowledge the stimulation of conversations with Charles H. Glatfelter, Ph.D., Jan Bankert and Pastor Larry M. Neff. Ruth K. Quickel has prepared typescript of some of this material in her usual gracious and careful manner as part of her devotion to Pennsylvania genealogy. The good staff of Picton Press had the manuscript as a wrestling match, I fear, but have made it useful for the reader.

Teacher plans trip abroad for high schoolers

By HANS IBOLD

Wood River High School French teacher Edith Iler works under a poster symbolizing her goal: a trip to Paris, France. (Express photo by Willy Cook)

Years of foreign language classes in high school can provide a solid foundation, but a month abroad can provide fluency.

That is the belief of one Wood River High School French teacher, who wants to immerse her students in the culture they have been studying for years in books and on tape.

Edith Iler is organizing a trip to France for a small group of juniors and seniors after the regular school year ends in June.

Fluency to Iler means more than just the facility to speak French. She wants her students to pick up the nuances of French culture, to gain a better perspective of American culture by looking through the lens of French culture and, she emphasizes, to get excited about learning.

"Our itinerary has a combination of classroom work, cultural exploration and just wandering beaches," said Iler, whose enthusiasm for the trip is infectious.

Iler, who has guided hiking and bicycling trips through France, charted a tentative course that will take the students from Paris to Bordeaux, through the Loire Valley and up to the northern coast of Normandy.

The trip will not, however, be just castle hopping and D-Day beach bathing. For the first 10 days, the students will live with French families in Villeneuve, a small town outside Bordeaux. Once there--and recovered from jet lag--students will attend college-level courses in French language and culture.

Iler linked up with Alliances Abroad, a study abroad organization that will facilitate the 10-day home-stay and schooling.

Host families, according to an Alliance Abroad brochure, are carefully selected and matched with students according to preferences and profiles noted on application materials.

Wood River students have expressed some reservations about their reservations with the French families.

But Iler has faith in the home-stays.

"European families are so hospitable. They're accustomed to welcoming foreigners," Iler said. "My experience has been that when you live with a French-speaking family, you learn how to speak better and quicker. And you end up building relationships."

Alliances Abroad has worked with college students for more than 60 years and is planning a special program for Wood River High School students. Students will log 33 hours of class time during their stay in Villeneuve. As an added bonus for the students, Alliance Abroad is arranging for them to receive college credit for their academic work and subsequent travel.

Free time and some flexibility are also built in to the itinerary so that Iler, her students and chaperones can customize their travel plans.

After class work and home-stays in Villeneuve, the students will be whisked by the bullet train to Paris, and then to the Loire Valley. Iler hopes to rent a van in the Loire Valley, which will enable the group to explore this lush region of castles. Venturing north, the group will take in the walled city of St. Malo, Mont St. Michel, Rennes, Normandy's D-Day beaches, and the American and Canadian cemetery.

The itinerary for the second 10 days will be planned collectively and will depend largely on the group's budget.

Cost for the entire trip is estimated at $2,700. Students and parents are investigating a variety of funding sources, including prize drawings with local businesses, a community garage sale, and possibly a dinner benefit.

The trip is contingent upon school board approval, which bases its evaluation on safety and educational issues. The school board responded favorably to a preliminary presentation from Iler on Jan. 12.

"My recommendation will be to approve the trip," superintendent Phil Homer said in an interview.

The school board looks for a 5-to-1 student to chaperone ratio on such trips, which Iler said she would try to accommodate.

"I see this as a great educational experience," said Leslie Williams, the mother of two Wood River High School students, Ricky, 14, and Erin, 15, who are interested in the trip. "If they go, they'll be getting a college-level education and will get to really see another culture."

Williams is working with other parents to realize the funding goals.

Iler said she hopes the trip will become a regular part of foreign-language offerings at the high school.

South San Francisco
At A Glance
"A Little History..."

The town of South San Francisco emerged from a portion of the Old Rancho Buri Buri, which was provisionally granted by the Mexican Government to Jose Antonio Sanchez in 1827. Charles Lux bought 1,463.91 acres of Buri Buri land and became a partner of Henry Miller, thus forming the firm of Miller and Lux, Pacific Coast land barons and cattle kings. It was on this property that Charles Lux built his family a beautiful country home. Through his heirs, the Lux Ranch was sold to Peter Iler and became the site of the thriving industrial city.

The site of South San Francisco was selected by G. F. Swift and purchased by Peter Iler of Omaha in 1890 for the establishment of stockyards and a market place for cattle produced in the area - similar to the stockyards in South Omaha. Needing money, they became allied with some Chicago capitalists and formed two joint stock corporations, one named South San Francisco Land and Improvement Company, while the other corporate body was known as Western Meat Company. From this beginning grew "South San Francisco, the Industrial City."

The name of South San Francisco followed the pattern planned by G. F. Swift, whose Taylor had not revealed the whereabouts of all the valuables, he pointed. a revolver at her, and would no doubt have shot her, had it not been for the second interference of Iler who said he didn't want any murder committed. The remarks of Iler in Mrs. Taylor's behalf afterwards saved his life. The thieves gathered up their plunder and came into Omaha.

Mr. Taylor returned home shortly afterwards, and upon learning the circumstances immediately came into Omaha and gave an account of the robbery.

Mr. Taylor next went before Major Armstrong, who was police judge and mayor of Omaha, and swore out a complaint against those old offenders John Doe and Richard Roe, as the real names were unknown. Thomas Riley, who is now a wholesale liquor merchant, was then city marshal, and a good officer he was too, during the three terms that he held that responsible office. In his hands the warrant of arrest was placed, and it was not long before he reported that he had discovered two men, whom he had not seen in town before, playing cards in a saloon under the Western Exchange Bank building, now occupied by Caldwell, Hamilton & Co. He had learned that they had first made their appearance here early that morning, and seemed rather free with their money. Riley was ordered to arrest them and bring them before the court, which he did without any unnecessary delay. The prisoners gave their names as James Bouve and John S. Iler, and said they had just come in from the west and were seeking employment as and taking the keys from him, the crowd passed him outside over their heads. They then unlocked the door of Bouve's cell, and hung him to a beam in the hall, the tips of his toes actually touching the floor, so that the planks had to be taken up to let him have a free swing. The county was thus relieved of any further expense or trouble in the case. It is said that he died game, making no confession and cursing the crowd in the most bitter terms. He is reported to have killed several men in Colorado, being a gambler and a thief by profession, and a daring desperado.

A good story is told in connection with this event. The men all there disguised, and unknown to each other. While they were looking for a place to hang Bouve from, a man who spoke through his nose--a defect known to everybody--exclaimed in his peculiar tone of voice, "Say, boys, here's a good beam to hang him on." Everybody recognized him at once, and the solemn scene was sandwiched with a general laughter for a minute or two. Bouve was hung from that very beam. In consideration of Iler's efforts in behalf of Mrs. Taylor at the time of the robbery, and his confession, he was set free by the vigilantes, who directed him to leave the country. They nearly scared the life out of him by firing their revolvers after him as he rapidly disappeared out of sight in the darkness. He went as far as Bellevue and obtained employment in a saw-mill, but a few months after he enlisted in Captain W. G. Hollins' company of volunteers, served through the war and received an honorable discharge as sergeant.

BUCHANAN -- With over 30 minutes gone in its Lakeland Conference semifinal game against Coloma, Buchanan outshot the visitors 13-1, controlled every offensive attack, and clearly was in command.

But the Bucks and Comets were still deadlocked at 0-0.

Then talented junior Trent Teshka opened the scoring near the end of the first half and finished with three goals to lead Buchanan to a 3-1 victory.

"What can I say. Trent played great," said Buck coach Fred Felty. "With the conditions of the field, I am extremely pleased that we came away with a win and nobody hurt."

On a field that had been flooded due the recent rains, both teams had trouble adjusting to the conditions, often slipping on the wet turf.

Three minutes into the game, Buchanan looked to jump on top quickly, as Derek Iler seemed to have a shot at an open net. But Coloma keeper Jason Moser's diving save kept the game scoreless.

WOOD COUNTY, OHIO

Wood County, Ohio, was organized in February 1820 and at the time of the 1820 census, had only 733 inhabitants. Ten years later in 1830, there were 1,095 inhabitants.[1]

The first settlers of Perry Township, where our ancestors settled, arrived in 1831. The first white child was born in the township in 1833.[2] The population was 559 in 1840, increasing to 888 by 1850, and 1,292 by 1860.[3]

Bloom Township, where some of our later ancestors lived, was among the last of the townships to receive its first contingent of pioneers due to its swampy conditions. The 1840 population consisted of only 437 people. Thirty years later, in 1870, it had increased to only 1,394, but by 1890 with the drainage system having extended to all sections, the population had grown to 3,334.[4]

The land was very heavily forested with an abundance of game. In 1853, timber covered 337,760 acres of the 382,845 acres that make up Wood County; by 1870, an additional 69,814 acres had been cleared. The native trees consisted of elm, sycamore, cottonwood, black and white ash, hickory, oak, beech, maple, poplar, walnut and butternut, mulberry, and buckeye.[5] When Henry Risser moved to Perry Township in 1849, only eighteen of the eighty acres had been cleared on the farm which he rented and later purchased.[6]

Much of Wood County was either wholly or partially covered by water during part of the year, thus it became known as the “black swamp”.[7] The soil, when not covered with water, was rich and fertile. Most of the area, however, was covered with a dense growth of timber with many fallen logs on the forest floor and the land was so level that the water did not drain away. These swampy conditions caused typhoid fever and ague and other diseases among the settlers. The ‘pestilence’ of 1854 (a cholera epidemic) caused the residents to realize that something had to be done about these conditions, and in December of 1854 the first ditch law was passed.[8] Ditching and road-building continued for many years until the land became the productive farming area it is today.

Oil and gas were discovered under large sections of Wood County and the first well was drilled in 1861. In the 1880’s drilling began again and land prices soared. Christian A. (C.A.) Risser of Jerry City, OH, wrote to his cousin Crist Risser on August 23, 1886, “Enclosed is an oil & gas lease on farm. Please sign & have it acknowledged before a J.P. & return. Gas excitement is big here now they struck the largest gas well in the State 4 1/2 miles South of this they expect to commence in a few days on my place.”[9] The first oil well of any importance, ‘a gusher’, was drilled in December of 1886. It was reported that when oil was struck, “we. . were hardly out of the way when the oil spouted up over the derrick and 85 feet in the air.” Another report stated “A wagon path in the woods was nearly a foot deep in oil, which run (sic) each way for many rods from the well. A half acre of land was covered with it, and a man walking a log made a misstep onto the ground and went over his boot top. The derrick and surrounding trees were dripping with the crude material and the men at work were covered with it.”[10] C. A. Risser wrote his cousin Crist on November 11, 1887, “Well Crist the oil business is Booming they struck a well last Friday that goes over 8000 Blls a day. About 2 hours after they struck it (there was so much oil and gas scattered around) & the evening train passed close by. the Gas exploded and well caught fire burned the fireman bad. & the well burned until last evening they put it out & got it under control it is a monster it is just a mile South of Cygnet. they have two wells at Cygnet that are doing about 800 bls each. right close to my land."[11] Many other gushers were drilled by 1902 making Wood County one of the wealthiest counties in the state. Here is what an old oil expert said in the very early 1900's with regard to the future of Wood county: "With the richest land, with inexhaustible soil, with a county agriculturally standing at the head, and add to it the natural gas advantages which is bound to bring manufacturing, and oil with the attendant business outgrowing therefrom - I say, with all these things taken into consideration, I know of no spot in American with a brighter future."[12]

14 LEWIS RISSER

Ludwig (Lewis) Risser, the second son and fourth child of Heinrich and Elisabetha, was born at six o'clock in the morning, 22 July 1838, in Einod, Germany. The Einod-Ingweiler Civil Records state that the birth of Ludwig was declared to them by Phillip Marschall, a farmer, 28 years of age, as having happened at the home of his parents. This declaration was made in the presence of Philipp Linn, a weaver living in Ingweiler, and Peter Hafner, a farmer living in Einod.[1] Where was Heinrich?

Ludwig was baptized 29 July 1838, in the Vereinigte Protestantisch-Evangelish Christlich Kirche der Pfalz in the city of Ernstweiler. Baptismal sponsors were Philipp Marschall of Einod, Ludwig Gravius of Ingweiler, Maria Bächle, married lady of Einod, and Katharine Bernd, married lady of Wattweiler.[2]

Lewis immigrated with his family to Ohio in 1845. The 1850 Wood County, Ohio, census lists him in the Jacob Pletcher household, (the Pletchers lived on the adjoining farm). Whether or not he was actually living there is not known. Lewis began learning the carpenter's trade at twenty-one years of age and followed that vocation for some time.[3]

Lewis met a young woman by the name of Hester Bresler (daughter of John and Hester Nestlerode Bresler) while she was visiting her brother Philip in Perry Township.[4] Lewis and Hester were married in Perry Township on 6 June 1867, by the Reverend Samuel Kelso. At the time of their marriage Lewis had only thirty dollars in savings and farmed rented land in both Perry and Montgomery townships.[5] Lewis purchased eighty acres of land in Bloom township 8 December 1869, from his sister and brother-in-law Elizabeth and Henry Pletcher. Whether or not Lewis and Hester lived on that property is unclear. The 1870 Ohio census lists Lewis and Hester and their two children, Susannah and Tobias, as living in Perry Township with Lewis's father Henry Risser, now a widower, and Lewis's oldest sister Catherine who was unmarried and without occupation.[6] On 8 March 1878, Henry Risser sold to Lewis for four thousand dollars the eighty acre farm which he had purchased in 1854 for six hundred dollars.

Lewis and Hester had three children, Susannah (Susie), Tobias, and William. Susie moved to Elkhart County, Indiana, sometime before 1900, to become housekeeper for her uncle Jacob and aunt Barbara Risser.[7] While there she met William Pletcher, son of John W. and Barbara Pletcher of Harrison Township. William was ten years younger than Susie and engaged to be married, but that didn't make any difference to Susie. They were married in 1901. Apparently the fact that Susie was ten years older than Will raised a lot of eyebrows! William, Lewis and Hester's youngest son, also married an Elkhart County girl, Laura Boyer, daughter of Samuel Boyer and Eliza Jane Stauffer Boyer. (Samuel Boyer was a native of Wood County, Ohio, having moved to Indiana when a young man. His first wife, Laura's mother, was a sister of Barbara Stauffer Risser, Jacob Risser's wife.) Tobias, the second son of Lewis and Hester, married Celestia Olive Iler. They remained in Ohio.

Lewis and Hester lived in Wood County for most of their lives except for several years during which they resided in Elkhart County, Indiana. Lewis and his son-in-law, William Pletcher, purchased a 160 acre farm in Harrison Township in 1912. Lewis and Hester moved to this farm and lived there until sometime in 1915 when they returned to Wood County. This farm contained two houses, one on the east side of the lane, and one on the west side, so William and Susie lived in one house and Lewis and Hester in the other. In November of 1915, Lewis sold his half of the farm to William.

Lewis and Hester did not unite with the Mennonite church but were Methodists and attended Bloom Chapel.[8] Lewis and his brother-in-law, George Milner, were however the last trustees of the Wood County Mennonite Cemetery, and deeded the lot to the Trustees of Perry Township.[9] Hester died in West Millgrove 24 March 1917 from gastric cancer. Lewis died three years later on 8 April 1920.

Deed Records:

8 December 1869 Henry and Elizabeth Pletcher of Wood County, Ohio, sold to Lewis Risser for Seven Hundred Fifty dollars the following real estate: the South half of the North East quarter of Section thirteen (13) in Township three (3) Range Eleven (11) East containing eighty (80) acres of land more or less. Received: 14 March 1870 Recorded: 15 March 1870[10]

8 March 1878 Henry Risser of Perry Township, Wood County, Ohio, sold to Lewis Risser for Four Thousand dollars the following premises: the North West quarter of the South East quarter and the South West quarter of the North East quarter of Section No. Six (6) in Township No. Three (3) North of Range Twelve (12) containing eighty (80) acres.
Received 1 May 1878 Recorded 6 May 1878.[11]

14 March 1912 Sanders & Egbert, a corporation of Goshen, Indiana, sold to William Pletcher of Elkhart County, Indiana, and Lewis Risser of Wood County, Ohio, for Fifteen thousand six hundred dollars the following real estate: the North East quarter of section eight (8) in Township thirty-six (36) Range five (5) containing one hundred sixty (160) acres. The grantor reserves all timber now upon said lands measuring twelve (12) inches and over in diameter at a point sixteen (16) inches above the ground, except that the grantor reserves only such beech and maple timber as will measure fourteen (14) inches and over in diameter at a point sixteen (16) inches above the ground. It is further agreed that the grantor shall have until 1 March 1916, in which to cut and remove said timber hereby reserved with free ingress and egress in and to said lands for the purpose of removing said timber. It is further agreed that the grantees shall have all such parts of trees as are not suitable for saw logs and also grantees shall have all timber smaller than above designated. Received 14 March 1912 Recorded 2 April 1912[12]

(Sanders & Egbert Lumber Company, one of the largest lumber operations in the United States, had a sawmill in Goshen. In the fall of 1911 they purchased the above property from the Jacob Yoder estate. Jacob had been one of the pioneer families of Elkhart County, so the 160 acres still contained 60 acres of virgin timber. The lumber company purchased the farm for twenty-two thousand dollars so that they could have the timber rights.[13] They then sold the undivided one hundred sixty acres to William and Lewis minus the timber rights.)

10 November 1915 Lewis P. Risser and Hester Risser his wife of Wood Co., Ohio, sold to William Pletcher and wife of Elkhart County for Nine Thousand dollars the following described real estate in Elkhart County: The undivided one-half of the North East quarter of section eight (8) in Township thirty-six (36) North Range five (5) East conveying eighty (80) acres. The grantors are to pay the 1915 taxes due in the year 1916.
Recorded: 9 February 1916 Seneca County, Ohio (Hester signed with her X)[14]

19 MARY RISSER 46966

Mary Risser was the either the youngest or the next youngest daughter of Henry and Elizabeth Risser. A daughter, Martha, died in infancy in Ashland County, Ohio,[1] but the birth and death dates are not known. The biographical sketch of Lewis Risser in the Historical and Biographical Record of Wood County, Ohio, published in 1897, lists the children of Henry Risser in order with Martha being last. Various documents have differing birth dates for Mary, which also causes confusion. Her obituary states that she was born in Ashland County, Ohio, 6 September 1849.[2] Her death certificate lists her birth date as 6 September 1851. The 1850 Ohio Census record for Wood County, p. 375, taken 1 October, records Mary's age as 2 years in the listing of the Henry Rasser (sic) family. The 1860 Census taken 14 August lists her age as 12; the 1880 Census, taken 10 June, lists her age as 31. So it is possible that her actual birth year was 1848.

Mary grew up in Wood County, Ohio, but may have spent some time in Elkhart county, Indiana. The 1870 Elkhart County, Indiana, census lists a Mary Risser, 20 years of age, born in Ohio, working as a housekeeper for Henry and Lydia Hoover in Harrison Township. [3] Is this our Mary? Most likely, because I never could find her in the1870 Wood County, Ohio, census.

Mary was married to George Milner on 19 October 1876, by A. Hays, Minister. The marriage certificate gives her name as "Mollie" Risser rather than Mary.[4] She was George's second wife; his first wife, Mary Stearns, whom he married 5 January 1873, died 4 October 1874. A child from this union had also died (Rosetta, 1 year 6 months). They are buried in West Millgrove Cemetery. [5]

George was a farmer and he and Mary lived in Bloom Township. There was a big celebration planned for 4 July 1885, in Jerry City with all sorts of events advertised. One of these events was a mule race, free to all, - $5.00 to the winner.[6] In a letter dated 7/10/85 Mary Risser Milner's uncle Christian writes about the celebration . . . "we had a big Fourth here, I was on the committee for advertising and I tell you we had a big crowd here we took in about 50$ mostly Soda water peanuts candy oranges Lemons Pineapples & Bananas. we have two Saloons and they took in over 100$ apiece you bet I was tired in the night. Geo Milliner (sic) Mary Risser's man won 5$ on the mule race. . ."[7]

Mary died 6 February 1914 in her home southwest of Prairie Depot. George then married Sarah Osterhold on 30 December 1915. He died 13 January 1928 aged 76 years 11 months and 24 days, and was buried in Mt. Zion Cemetery beside Mary.[8]

Mary and George had two children, Clara Velmeda and Edward. Clara married Edward J. Iler, son of John Iler and his wife Mary Lavy Iler, and a nephew of Celestia Olive Iler, wife of Tobias Risser. (Tobias was the son of Lewis Risser, Clara's uncle). Clara was E.J.'s second wife; his 7040 first wife, Chloe E. Bailey, whom he married 24 September 1892,[9] died 2 June 1894 (19 years 3 months 17 days) and is buried in Bloom Chapel Cemetery, Bloom Township.[10] Clara and E. J. were the parents of three children.

Edward Milner married Evelyn Gilson. After living in Portage Township, Wood County, Ohio, for several years they moved to Grand Ledge, Michigan, (near Lansing) where some of their descendants still live. Edward died at age seventy of burns from a grass fire he was tending on a nearby rental farm. It was thought that the wind shifted suddenly and the flames enveloped him before he could get away. MOVING VAN, FORD TRUCK AND TROLLEY CAR HAVE ARGUMENT

A big moving van stopped the H. L. Clark delivery truck Monday afternoon at the corner of Elm and Union streets and after having administered some severe punishment to the front of the Ford, it backed it up a few feet in order to let a street car take a swing at it.

The heavy truck with a load of household goods from Bowling Green, was coming south on Union as the 3:55 p. m. T. F. & F., was turning from Perry to Union streets. Leo Clark, who was driving the Perry street grocery Ford, was following the street car on the left side as there is not enough space on the right between the track and curbing. The front end of the interurban, swinging out on the second turn, prevented him from seeing the approaching truck until they were right together. They struck squarely, giving the Ford and occupants quite a jar besides breaking one of its front wheels and other minor damages but the impetus of the collision had also backed the lighter car a couple feet enough, that the back end of the street car caught it a blow as it was swinging into line on the northbound tracks and left a big hole in the back of the new delivery wagon.

Leo Clark was rather dazed for a few seconds as the force of the shock had knocked the wind out of him and a youngster who had been riding with him received a big bump on the middle of his forehead.

A couple of auto service men took his machine to a garage for repairs and the other car was able to continue on its trip.

Iler-Clark.

Wednesday noon at the U. B. parsonage in Findlay, Rev. Lilly united in marriage Mr. Leo V. Clark, and Miss Roxie Iler, both of this city. The couple were unattended.

Mrs. Clark is the daughter of Mrs. Clara Iler of 625 North County Line street and has been employed at the Corey Mfg. Co. Mr. Clark is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Clark, of 343 Summit and is employed at the H. R. Cark, grocery.

Mr. and Mrs. Clark will be at home to their many friends at 625 North County Line street.

ILER-CLARK

It is intimated that Miss Roxie Iler and Leo Clark will be married in Findlay this afternoon or evening. They went to that city this morning and this is understood to have been their mission. Miss Iler is the daughter of Mrs. Clara Iler of 641 North County Line street and Mr. Clark is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Clark of Summit street. Mr. Clark was a soldier during the late war.

Want to know about Ohio in the Civil War? Look on-line

The Civil War is going high tech at the Ohio Historical Society.

First, an online guide is in the works about the War Between the States and Ohio's participation in it. Next, a new multimedia CD explores the life and times of Union general and Ohio native Rutherford B. Hayes, who became the 19th U.S. president.

The online guide will offer easy access to the OHS Archives/Library Division's primary Civil War collections. The long-term project will compile more than 1,200 primary collections and provide bibliographic entries and other research aids.

"Ohio was third behind New York and Pennsylvania in mustering the most Union soldiers — some 300,000 men," said Julie Shaw, OHS communication specialist. "That makes for a lot of interesting material, all of which will be added as the project progresses."

Besides photographs and battle flags, the collections include manuscript letters, diaries, battle reports and artwork. They also preserve a number of official records, including recruiting, draft, regimental, prisoner of war, officer and surgeon general documents.

At present, library personnel are tackling State Archives Series 147, 45,000 letters sent to the governor and Ohio's adjutant general from 1861 to 1865. The letters reveal the challenges Ohio faced in raising, equipping, training and maintaining its troops.

"Each Series 147 entry will have a scanned image of the original letter," Shaw said, "with a brief synopsis of its content mounted on the website. It's a mighty task."

In 1997, the Hayes Presidential Center began developing a multimedia CD to trace the life of its namesake. The CD contains hundreds of visual images, plus scores of audio segments and video clips. It's compatible with Windows 3.1, '95 and '98 and can be read by CD-ROM and DVD drives. Along with a teacher's guide, the CD will be made available to schools across the country.

For more information on the OHS Archives/Library Division Civil War guide, log on to www.ohiohistory.org or call 1-800-686-1545. For more information about the Hayes CD, log on to hayeslib@nwonline.net or call 1-800-998-7737. ❑ — Jeff Reed

RACHAEL WAS LEFT ALONE TO RAISE THE CHILDREN, AND TIMES WERE HARD WITH NO INCOME. THEY PLANTED VEGETABLES AND THE SONS HUNTED FOR MEAT.
MANY KIND SOULS GAVE WHAT THEY COULD SPARE , WHICH WAS A GREAT SACRIFICE, BECAUSE TIMES WERE HARD THEN FOR ALL. AND I AM SURE ANY HELP WAS APPRECIATED. I KNOW, BECAUSE EVERY DAY OF THE WORLD I VISITED MY GRANDMOTHER, RACHEL (ERWIN) OILER, AND I PRACTICALLY TEETHED ON STORIES OF THE DEPRSSION AND OLD FAMILY TALES. I LOVED IT. I MAY INCUDE SOME OF THEM TO SHARE WITH THE REST OF MY EXTENDED FAMILY. MY FATHER, LEWIS R. OILER WENT TO WORK IN A LOCAL COAL MINE AT THE AGE OF 13 TO HELP SUPPORT THE FAMILY.
